THE CHRISTINE-HUGLO-ROBERTSON ESSAY PRIZE

A STIPEND OF $1,000

The Christine Huglo Robertson Essay Prize aims to engage law students in the work of the Canadian Institute for the Administration of Justice (CIAJ) and to promote scholarship concerning the administration of justice. The winner will receive a stipend of $1,000 and will be invited to CIAJ's Annual Conference to be held in Ottawa from October 17 to 19, 2018. The paper may also be presented on that occasion. CIAJ will provide to the recipient: travel, accommodation and registration to the conference.

ELIGIBILITY

Competition for the prize is open only to students registered for an undergraduate degree (J.D., LL.B. or B.C.L.) at a Faculty of Law at a Canadian university and only for a paper written in the twelve months preceding the closing date for submissions. Papers submitted for academic credit may be submitted for this prize. Candidates must provide confirmation of their academic registration, including a statement of the date at which the text was written, and they must attest that the paper has not been submitted elsewhere, in whole or in part, for publication or a prize.

Submissions must be received by e-mail at ciaj@ciaj-icaj.ca no later than Friday, June 15, 2018. An announcement of the prize will be made early July.

REGISTRATION FEE

A registration fee of $10 will be requested upon reception of the documents by email. CIAJ's annual membership is included and valid one year from the date of registration.

SUBJECT & FORM

The prize is awarded annually for an original paper, previously unpublished, on a topic relating to the administration of justice. Candidates are strongly encouraged to consider subjects relating to the theme of CIAJ's 2018 Annual Conference, which is: Justice and Mental Health.

Papers in French or English must be no more than 7,500 words, including notes and tables. They must be in a format compatible with Microsoft Word. The candidate's name and university should appear on the cover of the paper but the text must not otherwise identify the author of the submission.

SELECTION

A committee will select the best paper. It must be of publishable quality and make a significant contribution to scholarship concerning the administration of justice. CIAJ will not award the prize if there is no text of sufficient merit. CIAJ will publish the paper in digital or printed form. Copyright will remain with CIAJ.
